

You Love Building Bridges? Between Challenges and Solutions? Between Doers and Skeptics?

Managing Consultant Enterprise Data Management (all genders)

Parsionate advises companies, unlocks their potential and works with them to invent entirely new solutions – all on the basis of data and what it has to offer. We call this data leadership. We leverage our expertise to focus on the benefits and successes we generate for our customers and partners, which is exactly why Parsionate works end-to-end: we are by our customers' side from strategy development to full technological implementation. All this is what our more than 200 experts are working on at our Parsionate locations across Europe. Why not join the team?

What you can expect:

- You take over the responsibility and management complex, international consulting programs in Enterprise Data Management
- You are passionate about providing functional and methodological consulting to our clients' management in the areas of organizational development, governance and business transformation, especially in the context of digital transformation
- You bring your expertise to the conceptualization, design and implementation of future-oriented strategies and solutions for our international clients from various industries
- You skillfully take on the development, leadership and promotion of a highly motivated team of experts
- At parsionate you will be jointly responsible for the expansion of the strategic consulting area through the targeted further development and marketing of the parsionate service portfolio.

Your skillset:

- You have at least 10 years of solid consulting and project management experience in the area of information & data management in a management consulting firm or in in-house consulting
- You would like to bring your enthusiasm for the development and use of innovative consulting approaches/solutions in the areas of enterprise data management, data quality and process design to parsionate
- Experience in the role of a team leader and in the use of different leadership techniques
- You have a proven track record in program-related key account development
- A high sense of quality and responsibility are a matter of course for you
- You convince with your excellent mentoring and moderation skills
- You speak fluent German and English

parsionate GmbH

Helen Roth
Motorstraße 25

Parsionate

70499 Stuttgart
working@parsionate.com

Jetzt Bewerben